A Year-End Holiday Spending Forecast in July
July 17, 2009

There's nothing like a holiday-spending forecast to help you ignore the hot, humid weather of mid-July. Worthington, Ohio-based BIGresearch offers such a distraction with a poll (fielded at the tag end of June and beginning of July) that asked consumers to predict what their holiday spending will look like this year. Designer Dressing

July 14, 2009

Tillie's Gourmet's all-natural premium dressings and marinades are so versatile, they can be used on a lot more than just salad, according to the Doylestown, Pa.-based company, which suggests adding them to poultry, seafood (including sushi), chilled or roasted vegetables, and sandwiches. The varieties now available are Tomato & Garlic, Roasted Red Pepper & Garlic, Sundried Tomato & Basil, and Toasted Sesame & Ginger. A 12-ounce bottle retails for a suggested $5.99.
